County

[illegible]

Maine. Although in the midst of great firestorms, its paper mills have caused a town of more than 5,000 people to grow up here.

From the station was the tall smoke stacks of the paper mills. Just south of Millville we caught a beautiful view of Mt. Katahdin as we passed along the shore of a large lake.

Beyond Millville our train ran for miles through forests. Gradually the wilderness became less dense, farms came into view and the hills were in sight. We were in a brook at last.

The thirty mile run from Island Falls to Houlton was through an increasingly beautiful country with less woods and more farms. At last we reached a town not level, but rolling with gradual sloping hillsides. We came into Houlton just at sunset with great fields of potatoes, oats and clover, an evergreen forest. We had reached the garden of Maine.

FRYEBURG

Clinton H. and Dr. Ernest Irving Cole

There was a unique occurrence at Fry-burg, August fifteenth, when the remains of two brothers were laid to rest in the old burial ground on Fish Street. They were Clinton Henry Cole, of Westfield, Mass., and Dr. Ernest Irving Cole, of St.
Petersburg, Florida. The former died
April 22 and his body was cremated.
Dr. Cole died August 6, and the ashes of the former were buried beside the body of the latter.

Both brothers were born in Lovell,
Maine, the sons of Robert B. and Ruth Boothbay (Heald) Cole, but they removed to Fryeburg Center, in 1866. The old place there still remains in the family.
Clinton Cole never married, but lived at home taking care of his parents. After their death he went to Savannah, Ga., where he lived for several years, but returned to Fryeburg, Mass., where his brother, Prof. D. M. Cole, was head of the science department in the Westfield High School.

Clinton Cole was a man of sterling character, honest, conscientious and upright in all his dealings, and a devout Christian.

Dr. Cole worked his way through Fry-burg Academy by helping the Rev. Mr.
Norcross of North Conway. He entered Bowdoin College, but weak eyesight prevented his remaining there, but he continued some of his studies in Boston. In 1900 he married Miss Edgarda Williams, of Ossining, N. Y., and they went to California, spending five years there on a fruit ranch. Returning to New York he prepared for the ministry and became a home missionary in Maine and New Hampshire. Some fifteen years ago he went to Florida where he studied and practised chiropractic and naturopathy, being so successful in his profession that he never lost a patient.

He was a man of splendid Christian traits, consistent in his life, devoted to his family, a good neighbor and a loyal friend. For years he was a deacon in the southern church and he taught the Men's Bible class there winters, and a similar class in N. Y. summers. He was well read, especially upon Biblical subjects, and wielded a ready pen, possessing a characteristic humor peculiarly his own. He contributed to the "Youth's Companion," and other papers and was at one time editor of a local Boston paper, the "Beacon Hill News." He was a vegetarian for over forty years and an authority and lecturer on food subjects. He was an expert with both the rifle and bow and arrow, and was the founder and president of the St. Petersburg Archery Club. He won numbers of trophies at the National Archery tournaments with tackle of his own make.

He was descended from a large number of local families, including the Hills, Healds, Hazletons, Bradburys, Loves, etc.
also, from Hannah Dustin, famous for her exploit with the Indians. Rev. John Wheelwright, founder of Exeter, N. H., and Major Robert Pike.

Besides his widow he leaves a son, Lon-is Flet Cole of Indianapolis a daughter, Ruth Hazelton Cole, of St. Petersburg,
Florida and a little grandson, Robert Louis Cole, as well as a large circle of devoted friends to mourn their loss.

ANDOVER
Andover Loses Oldest Citizen
In the death of James Hall last Sunday, Andover lost its oldest citizen. He had lived to the ripe age of ninety years
five months, and had retained to the last
his faculties, his memory, and his interest in life. He was born in South Andover,
on the farm where his great grandfather Abbott, one of the first settlers, made the home.

He was the holder of the Boston Post
case since the death of Lincoln Dresser.
With the exception of a few years spent
in New Hampshire, he had lived his long life in Andover. His wife, Emma Marston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leander Marston, died when very young. One son was born to them, Harvey, who passed away five years ago. Mr. Hall is survived by two grandsons, Richard and Herbert
Hall, and a daughter-in-law, Mrs. Bertha Hall, with whom he lived. The funeral was held Tuesday forenoon, at the home,
attended by Rev. James Renfrew, pastor of the Congregational church. There were many floral tributes. Burial was in Woodlawn Cemetery.

CASCO
Llewellyn Tenney and family from Rumok, New York, visited relatives in town recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph West, who have been spending a few days in their summer cottage here, returned to their home in Portland, Aug. 19.

Mrs. Herman Rolfe of Bridgton called on friends here, August 19.

The drama played at the Casco Grange Hall by the Otisfield talent, was well attended.

WATERFORD

George Allen, with the tractor, dragged

Monday, August 20.

Miss Frances Roudy of Providence, R.
I., and Miss Emilie Smith of Pittsburg, Pa., have recently spent a week at Highland Farm. They came by way of the White Mountains and took in all the places of interest there. Saturday morning, Aug. 18, Miss Smith and cousin, Mrs.
Addison Millett, motored to Hanover, N.
H., to visit Mrs. Smith's car, to visit their aunt, Mrs. Martha Green. They went by way of Crawford Notch and returned Sunday night by way of Franconia Notch.

Mrs. M. Ella Charles has been visiting her brother, Addison Millett, and family, the past week. She is now with Mrs. Mellen Plummer at the Plummer homestead for a week or two.

Elizabeth Millett was at home over Sunday, Aug. 19, from her work at Camp
Ha-Wa-Ya, in Harrison.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Fitts and two daughters, Dorothy and Beatrice, of Quincy, Mass., are visiting Mrs. Fitts' sister, Mrs. Addison Millett, and family.
Raymond Millett and family have returned to Northfield, Vermont.

ANDOVER
Andover Loses Oldest Citizen
In the death of James Hall last Sunday, Andover lost its oldest citizen. He had lived to the ripe age of ninety years
five months, and had retained to the last
his faculties, his memory, and his interest
in life. He was born in South Andover,
on the farm where his great grandfather Abbott, one of the first settlers, made the home.

He was the holder of the Boston Post
case since the death of Lincoln Dresser.
With the exception of a few years spent
in New Hampshire, he had lived his long life in Andover. His wife, Emma Mar-
ston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leander
Marston, died when very young. One son
was born to them, Harvey, who passed away five years ago. Mr. Hall is survived by two grandsons, Richard and Herbert
Hall, and a daughter-in-law, Mrs. Bertha
Hall, with whom he lived. The funeral was held Tuesday forenoon, at the home,
attended by Rev. James Renfrew, pastor
of the Congregational church. There were many floral tributes. Burial was in Woodlawn Cemetery.

BATES—WEST PARIS

Whirlwind Rally—Visitors at Mrs. Pratt's—Corbett-Bane Wedding—Misses Williams and Pratt at Ocean Park.—Mrs. Perlman in Hospital.

The Republican Whirlwind Tour of Oxford County visited here recently and the following people gave short addresses in front of G. A. Smith's store: Col. Tudor Gardner, Congressman Senator Frank Lake, Congressman Wallace H. White and Mrs. Eva Mason. They announced their arrival by band music furnished by the Klille Band of Danford. There was a gathering of about thirty citizens out to hear them and each speaker took enough time, spoke the truths for which they were working and the main point was to urge every voter to vote in the coming election. Mrs. Mason delivered her talk to the women voters to organize and go after every other woman. Harold C. Wainwright introduced the speakers.

PAUL PREACHING IN THESSALONICA AND BEREIA

LESSON TEXT—Acts 17:1-15; I Thess. 4:13-14; Romans 15:19-20.
GOLDEN TEXT—The entrance of thy words giveth light.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Paul Finds New Friends and Foes.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Paul Finds New Friends and Foes.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Paul's Use of the Scriptures.
YOUTH PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Paul, Organizer of Churches.

1. Preaching in Thessalonica (Acts 17:1-15).

2. His method (vv. 1, 2).
3. He observed the divine order, "to the Jews first, then to the Greeks, then to the Gentiles." He went out on the Sabbath day so as to find them assembled together.

4. His message (v. 3).
5. He said that Jesus is the Christ. In order to prove that Jesus is the Christ, he expounded unto them the Scriptures. Concerning Christ he set forth divine prophecies.

6. "That Christ must needs have suffered" (v. 3).

7. The suffering Christ was not welcomed by the Jews (Isa. 53). They were looking for a Messiah of a different type.

8. "Risen from the dead" (v. 3).
9. This he proved by the Scriptures. The resurrection of Christ and the bodily resurrection of believers need sound and practical exposition today.

10. "That this Jesus, whom I preach unto you, is Christ."

11. He declared that the historic Jesus whom he had proclaimed had suffered and risen from the dead, therefore he is the predicted Messiah.

12. The attitude of the Jews toward this preaching (vv. 4-10).

13. While some Jews believed and many Greeks, the envy of certain Jews was so aroused at Paul's success that they gathered together the worthless fellows of the town and created a riot. When Paul was brought before the city council, he turned the matter into a religious issue.

14. He preached the kingdom of Jesus (v. 7). Jesus is most assuredly coming to reign on this earth.

15. What He Preached at Thessalonica (I Thess. 5:13-20).

16. He corrected certain doctrinal errors which had crept into the church. 1. They were not to sorrow unduly (v. 13).

2. Because they failed to understand the meaning of Paul's preaching concerning the coming of the Lord they were indulging in excessive sorrow.

3. They seemed to think that their loved ones who had died would miss the blessings and glory connected with the return of the Lord.

4. The events associated with the Lord's coming (vv. 13-18).

5. In this section he gives the reasons why they were not to allow themselves to be overwhelmed with grief.

6. The departed saints will come back when Jesus comes (v. 14).

7. Immediately following the death of believers their spirits go to be with the Lord where they remain in the state of blessedness until the Lord shall return to this earth, bringing them with Him.

8. The bodies of the dead in Christ shall come from the grave (v. 16).

9. When the Lord comes there will be a real resurrection of the dead in Christ, before the change of the bodies of living believers.

10. Living believers will be caught up together with those who have been resurrected (v. 17).

11. The time of the Lord's coming is unknown (5:1-11). We are commanded to be ready, to watch.

12. Paul Preaching in Berea (Acts 17:10-15).

13. His method (v. 10).

14. He entered the Jewish synagogue and preached Christ.

15. The reception of the Gospel by the Bereans (vv. 11, 12).

16. They received the message gladly.

17. They searched the Scriptures daily for the truthfulness of the message which they had heard.

18. The wicked action of the Jews (vv. 13-15).

19. Wicked Jews from Thessalonica followed the missionaries and stirred up the people against them, making it necessary for them again to flee.

20. Paul's Manner of Preaching (Rom. 15:19-20).

21. Whenever he went in the Gentile world he preached salvation through faith in Christ. God accompanied his ministry with mighty signs and wonders, with the object of making the Gentiles obedient to the Gospel. Paul's aim was to preach in new fields so as not to build on the foundation of another.

22. Jesus and Preaching

23. Jesus chose preaching as the method of extending the knowledge of Himself throughout the world. He taught His truth to a few men, and then He said, "Now go and tell that truth to other men."—Phillips Brooks.

24. At the Door

25. "Behold, I stand at the door, and knock: If any man hear My voice, and open the door, I will come in to him, and will sup with him, and he shall be with Me."—Rev. 3:20.

26. GREENWOOD CENTER

27. Carrie Cole in company with friends, returned to Canada, Sunday, August 19.

28. Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Green, Mrs. M. H. Pitts, and Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Abbott and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Abbott and family of Meadville, were at their cottage at Westville Lake, Sunday, August 19.

29. Mary Martin and Cecile Roberts visited their sister, Mrs. Eliza Farr, at Westville a few days recently. Mrs. R. L. Martin visited there Sunday, August 19.

30. Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Whitman and family of Norway, were at their cottage recently.

31. Roy Morgan has been building a chimney for Lester Cole.

32. E. E. Russell, superintendent of Bethel, was a caller in this vicinity, recently.

Political Pot Boiling

H. C. Perham of West Paris Outlines the Congressional Record Giving Credence to the Past

To the Editor: Already the Pot is boiling. Oxford County is in the throes of the hottest political year it has had in two decades. The excitement now is centered in the big towns, but is spreading throughout every village and neighborhood. September 10th bids fair to bring out a vote that will decide even the most optimistic. Not only will there be a record "male" vote, but the unprecedented activity among the women will bring out a vote that will be a credit to the words "woman suffrage" and an honor to Oxford County.

Oxford County, as a part of the Second Congressional District and the "Barnyard State," is on trial politically. The question is: Shall Oxford County back the United Democratic Nominee, Albert Bell, or will she send back to Congress the statesman of Wallace H. White, Republican Nominee?

Every voter in Oxford County will be interested in the following facts regarding the man who has served the State of Maine so well in the Nation's halls, that he is now recognized as one of the twenty most prominent men in affairs at Washington—Wallace H. White.

Wallace H. White is the respected, personal friend of Herbert Hoover, who said that he was present at the National Republican Convention in the private Hoover office, meeting the greatest leader of the day in political life.

Congressman White assisted in the drafting of the Sells Bill for the benefit of Spanish War Veterans and their widows. In the sixty-sixth Congress he was chairman of the Committee on Commerce and Fisheries. He is now chairman of the Committee on Merchant Marine and Fisheries. This is the only chairmanship of a Legislative Committee of the House held by any Maine representative in more than twenty-five years. After ten years of fruitless wrangling over method, the Jones Shipping Bill was placed in the hands of Mr. White for guidance. As a result, the Merchant Marine Act of 1920 is now a fact. This act allowed nineteen shipyards to commence operations on American Merchant Ships.

Congressman White has drafted all general radio legislation reported to the floor in the last four Congresses and is generally regarded as the author of the Radio Act of 1927. His stand against monopoly in this field is noteworthy.

In May, 1924, Congressman White was appointed by President Coolidge as one of three to represent the United States at the Pan-American Conference held in Mexico City. This conference was attended by most of the nations of Central and South America. In the absence of the American Ambassador, Mr. White became head of the American delegation. He spoke for the United States at the conference. Congressman White was chosen one of the American group of the International Union in 1925. The first work of this group was in furthering the cause of arbitration between nations. Mr. White ably represents Maine on Prohibition and Law Enforcement. He is a conservative man, level-headed and honest. He stands for the best things in life. Letters and requests from constituents have always been answered in that direct, yet courteous, way which distinguishes the writer as a gentleman and makes him friends for life.

The "critical" Portland Evening News says: "Wallace H. White is today Maine's pre-eminent figure in Congress and no closer than any other Maine man in Washington to maintaining the high standard set by Maine's past representation at the Capitol."

The above are but a few of the achievements and activities of Congressman White.

Papoose Pond News

Last week was Connecticut week at Papoose Pond Camp, as every camp had a party from the "Nutmeg State".

Rev. A. P. Corliss and family from Hartford, Conn., with other relatives are spending two weeks at Camp LaFollet.

P. W. Slater and children, also Mrs. Downey and two sons from Waterbury, Conn., are spending a two weeks vacation at Camp Mudwayauska.

Another Waterbury party, Mr. L. F. Brown and family are at Camp Pinchola this week. Louis Ayotte and family with Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ayotte, and Mr. and Mrs. Brock are a third Waterbury party. They are at Camp Minnewawa for two weeks.

Miss Bessie Greely, formerly of South Paris with Miss Martha Folke and Mrs. Lagerstrom of Stamford, Conn., are at Camp Pinchola this week.

Several of these people are making their first visit to Maine but all seem to agree that it will not be their last.

Fishing has been quite good the past week in spite of the hot weather. Numerous pickerel and hornpout have been caught, not to mention some eels. Several large bass are also reported. Mrs. Smith caught one weighing three pounds, Friday morning.

The beach has also been popular during the hot weather. Everyone in the camp and many parties from outside have enjoyed the swimming there.

Gordon Stewart of South Paris visited his friend Earl Brown at Camp Iowa last week. Tuesday afternoon, Earl and Raymond Brown entertained Rev. R. H. Colby of South Paris and Nelson Haskell at a beach party for the members of their Sunday school class. Swimming, pitching horseshoes and a picnic supper with frankfurters and bacon cooked over a fire on the beach made up the entertainment.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Smith of Revere, Mass., Mr. E. H. Bishop and party, Mr. and Mrs. McIntosh and David B. McIntosh of Quincy have returned home, after spending their vacations at Papoose Pond Camp.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Priest, Emerson Priest and Miss Etta Sanford of Winchester, Mass., are occupying the Andrews cottage this week until there is a vacancy for them at Camp Pinchola.

Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Clark and several members of their family were at their camp Sunshine Lodge over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Smith were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Parst, Sunday, August 19.

Mr. and Mrs. Bennett Strout of Bridgton, stopped at Virgil Flood's a few days recently.

Little Elden Hall, Jr. of Farmington, is again with his grandmother, Mrs. Winnie Hall, after spending a week or so at home.

The dream is short, the repentance long.—Schiller.

OXFORD—FORE STREET

I was so discouraged when the pulley line broke and left ten to a dozen clean sheets into the dirt and sand necessitating the thorough washing of them again, that when that Mrs. Liza Martin, formerly of Greenwood, now of Portland, called to tell how she found her sister, Mrs. Fred Waterhouse of West Paris, who is sick, that I forgot her married name and can't recall it now. At first I was so disgusted with myself I said, "What's the use of sending any items anyway! Probably will get them mixed and muddled!" But I do want to mention that Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth, William of Long Branch, N. J., called on his Fore Street friends and Edna Martin Masterman and husband of Atlantic, Mass., called on the Twichells, August 21.

Harriet Boyd of Oxford, Ernest Talbot and two daughters of South Paris, with her mother and sister, Mrs. and Miss Self of Indiana, also Beth Morris Berry and husband of Portland.

Rev. Harold Faulkham and family of Lawrence, Mass., and Rev. Merton Snow and family of Belmont, N. H., visited at At Twichells' recently.

C. J. Cumings' and Pacific Coast points. Tickets good going several fine routes, returning routes and good for stopovers at all points. Trains leave Norway 9:05 a. m. daily except Sunday, and South Paris daily 9:45 a. m. and 1:45 p. m. for Montreal, Toronto, Detroit and Chicago, connecting at Chicago with Western destinations. This was the first of an innumerable caravan of tales, short and long. To "Rechnichte" passed away a day, 1830, and the "Bühnen" hour for "foresight."

He discovered that he could use his wit with facility and soon found space, as Gleason's "Flag of our Union," in the "Bohm Waids: A Tale of the Time of Joso Emperor of Germany" began unfolded itself in the summer of 1850. Its success was so great that Gleason was induced to later started the "Pictorial Dramatic Roman Companion," for which the tale spinner also wrote. He used much of pen-and-ink in the "Roman Companion" as C. Burdick's was one of these. His titles were ponderous, but fitting. "The Light Keeper of the Channel" and "The Romance of the Spanish Samples."

For six years he served Gleason, contributing more than two hundred tales to the "Roman Companion" and his labors on farming and social subjects. He even discussed bees, Benjamin Shillaber, "Mrs. Martin's Cabbages," and helped to fill it.

Having established a reputation on a market, like most authors, he longed to strike his own path. This yearning bore to his father's birthplace in Norway, Maine. It is a lovely land of lakes, he found fields and forests. "The Light Keeper of the Channel," whatever means, he took unto himself a farm in 1852. A house had to be built and he set with a near-by.

On September, 1853, he married in the. The struggle lasted two years. Then he gave it up, several thousand dollars poorer for his experience. He had sold two houses in which he had lived at different times, still staid. Here he resumed activity with his pen and became a famous figure about the "Bohm Waids" of the first Maine game company, Oxford Bear No. 1.

The company was gossamerously arrayed and showed up better on paper than in fact. There were few hunters and had no water supply and Oxford Bear No. 1, would empty the stomachs of the hunters. Thus all the clowns in the circus found too often under the influence of rum. "Maine law" was introduced, but did not check the drinking. In the fall of 1855, the village found in the number of inebriated persons on a holiday. "Sylvanus" was one of those intoxicated "foresight" and was seized and plied with a refreshing frequency.

from 450 to 1000 pages of manuscript each. This, remember, was before the day of the deluging typewriter. The "Sketches" were thirty—two of them, "one hundred and two" classified as "adventure"; fifty-seven short stories; five hundred and seventy-five "sketches"; and thirty-two, three hundred and five "scraps," as they called them.

"At the end of thirty years with little or no rest, summed up his accomplishments as above and added in his own words: "A good record," it is hereby said.

On Thursday evening, May 19, 1887, he wished what was to be his last tale, wrote his diary for that day: "Wrote sketch, 'Seaside, Jack's Romance,' probably the last I shall ever write. Tomorrow will flow all right for a while."

An attack of pneumonia in the previous January had left the hardworked writer in bed for two months, and he died on the afternoon of July 20, 1887.
